Biography

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

GENERAL JOHN D. RYAN

General John Dale Ryan is Chief of Staff of the United States Air Force.

General Ryan was born in Cherokee, Iowa, Dec. 10, 1915. Following graduation from Cherokee Junior College in 1934, he entered the United States Military Academy from which he graduated in 1938. He next attended flying school at Randolph and Kelly Fields, Tex., and received his pilot wings in 1939.

General Ryan remained at Kelly Field as a flight instructor for approximately two years. From January 1942 until August 1943 he was Director of Training at Midland Army Air Field, Tex., and was instrumental in establishing an advanced bombardier training school. His next assignment was as operations officer for the Second Air Force at Colorado Springs, Colo. In February 1944 he was transferred to Italy where he commanded the 2nd Bombardment Group and later became operations officer for the 5th Bombardment Wing, Fifteenth Air Force. While in Europe, General Ryan flew 58 combat missions for a total of 340 combat hours in the B-17.

He returned to the United States in April 1945 and became Deputy Air Base Commander, Midland Army Air Field, Tex. In September 1945 he was assigned to the Air Training Command (ATC) at Fort Worth and Randolph Field, Tex., where he remained until April 1946 when he assumed duties with the 58th Bombardment Wing and participated in the Bikini Atoll atomic weapons tests. From September 1946 to July 1948, he was Assistant Chief of Staff for Plans of the 58th Bombardment Wing and then Eighth Air Force Director of Operations. For the next three years, he commanded the 509th Bombardment Wing at Walker Air Force Base, N. Mex. Between July 1951 and June 1956, General Ryan commanded the 97th Bombardment Wing and the 810th Air Division, both at Biggs Air Force Base, Tex., and the 19th Air Division at Carswell Air Force Base, Tex.

General Ryan became Director of Materiel for the Strategic Air Command (SAC) in June 1956 and four years later assumed command of SAC's Sixteenth Air Force in Spain. In July 1961 he was named Commander of the Second Air Force at Barksdale Air Force Base, La.

In August 1963 General Ryan was assigned to the Pentagon as Inspector General for the U. S. Air Force. One year later he was named Vice Commander in Chief of Strategic Air Command and in December 1964 became Commander in Chief. He was assigned as Commander in Chief, Pacific Air Forces, in February 1967.

General Ryan was appointed Vice Chief of Staff of the U. S. Air Force in August 1968 and Chief of Staff of the U. S. Air Force in August 1969.

Biography

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

NOTE: Nominated for 3-star rank - to be effective 1 Feb 70.

MAJOR GENERAL OTTO J. GLASSER

Major General Otto John Glasser is the Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Research and Development (R&D) at Headquarters U.S. Air Force, Washington, D.C. In this function, he assists the Deputy Chief of Staff, Research and Development, in monitoring the Air Force R&D effort.

General Glasser was born in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., on Oct. 2, 1918. He was graduated from Cornell University in 1940 with a degree in electrical engineering. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Officers Reserve Corps in May of 1940, and was called to active duty with the Army Signal Corps in February 1941. For the next several years, the General was assigned to the Caribbean area and was responsible for the installation and operation of early warning radar systems.

He entered flying training in September 1943, graduated the following June, and then received transition training in the B-17, B-24 and B-29. In September 1945, General Glasser was assigned as Chief of the Radar Branch, Headquarters Continental Air Forces (later the Strategic Air Command), Bolling Field, Washington, D.C.

In 1946 he attended Ohio State University for graduate training in electronic physics and received his masters degree in 1947. Following graduation, General Glasser was assigned to the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project, Albuquerque, N. Mex., until January 1951 when he entered the Air Command and Staff School, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. Upon completion of the School in May 1951, he was assigned to Headquarters U. S. Air Force as Chief, Munitions Branch, R&D Directorate.

General Glasser joined the Air Research and Development Command (ARDC) in 1954, and went to the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, Los Angeles, Calif. The General was one of the initial group assembled to develop the first inter-continental ballistic missile. He later became Program Director for both the ATLAS and MINUTEMAN missiles.

In October 1959, General Glasser was reassigned to Headquarters ARDC, Andrews Air Force Base, Md., serving first as Chief, Ballistic Missiles and Space Systems Division, and later as Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff, Research and Engineering. In February 1961, he was designated Special Assistant to the Commander, ARDC, with additional duty as Chief of the Command Special Projects Office.

During July 1962, General Glasser was transferred to L. G. Hanscom Field, Mass., as the Vice Commander of the Electronic Systems Division, Air Force Systems Command (AFSC). He remained in this position until July 1965 when he was reassigned to the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff, Research and Development, Headquarters U.S. Air Force; first as Deputy Director of Operational Requirements and Development Plans, and, subsequently, to his present position as Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff, R&D.

His decorations include the Legion of Merit and the Air Force Commendation Medal.

General Glasser is married to the former Norma Mayo of Tampa, Fla. They have two daughters; Charlene Lee and Carole Jeanne.
